What is the UWEX Master Gardener Program?

Master Gardeners are trained volunteers who aid University of Wisconsin-Extension by helping people in their communities better understand horticulture and their environment. This national program was introduced to Wisconsin in 1977. The Master Gardener Program is in all 50 states and several countries.

The goal of the program is to educate and encourage volunteers to help enhance the public's knowledge and awareness of horticulture and natural science. Benefits of participation in the program include new interests, exploration, research, friendships, recognition, self-confidence, leadership and education.

Who Can Participate?

Any adult interested in gardening and volunteering in their community can participate—no previous experience or training is necessary. Enrollment in class is on a first-come basis.

Requirements to Become a Certified Master Gardener

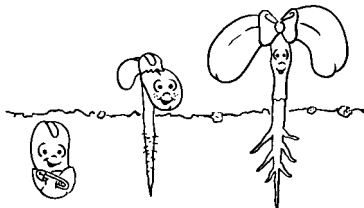

Students will attend classes and receive training on a variety of gardening and landscaping topics. These topics include such things as basic botany, soil science, fruits, vegetables, diseases, insects, annual and perennial flowers, trees and shrubs, backyard wildlife, lawn care, native plants, and more!

In return, students are required to volunteer 24 hours of their time to the community helping others learn about horticulture and gardening.

Upon completion of the training, passing a final exam and background check, and fulfilling the volunteer requirements, the University of Wisconsin will certify students as Wisconsin Master Gardener Volunteers.

To maintain certification, Master Gardeners Volunteers complete 24 hours of volunteer service and 10 hours of continuing education each year.

Becoming a certified Wisconsin Master Gardener Volunteer is a great way to enrich your life and the lives of others!
